The Blue Water Edit

The Best Summers Are Planned in Winter

It usually starts with a group text. Someone floats a week in June, someone else checks the school calendar, a grandparent asks if there will be a pool, and before long the whole family is planning a week together. The families who get the summer week they want tend to have one thing in common: they settle it early, while everyone else is still thinking about Thanksgiving.

At Latitude Adjustment, that week looks like five bedrooms with room for everyone to land, a private pool and hot tub for the kids who never want to get out, and a boardwalk straight to the Gulf for the grown-ups who just want a chair and a good book. Breakfast is loud, dinner is long, and nobody is split across rentals down the street. Summer 2027 is now open for booking, and the first families to reach out get first pick of the weeks.

So go ahead and start the group text. We'll save you a chair on the boardwalk.

Island Inspiration: Make It a Tradition

Some families have a summer week the way other families have a Thanksgiving table. Same beach, same house, same friendly debate over who gets the room with the best view. The kids measure how much they've grown against last year's beach photo, the grandparents claim the same balcony chairs, and the week becomes the one fixed point everyone plans the rest of the year around. Traditions don't need to be grand. They just need a place to come back to.

Christmas Week

Still deciding where to spend the holidays? Christmas week (December 19 to 26) is open. Picture one long dinner for the whole crew, then a sunset walk down the boardwalk. The first week of January is open too.

CHECK DATES

Island Spotlight

Once a month, the Cape St. George Lighthouse opens after hours for its Sunset and Full Moon Climb: 92 spiral steps, a short ladder, and the whole island glowing below you.

OCT 26 & NOV 24

Until Next Time

If this issue has a theme, it's this: the best weeks of the year rarely happen by accident. Someone picks the dates. Someone sends the first text. Someone decides that this is the year the whole family finally gets together in one place, with enough bedrooms that nobody is on an air mattress and enough beach that nobody is in anyone's way.

We'd love for that someone to be you. Whether you're dreaming about a quiet Christmas week or a full family reunion next June, reach out and tell us who's coming. We know this house down to the last beach chair, and we're happy to help you find the week that fits your crew, answer every question along the way, and point you toward the island favorites that make a stay feel like your own.

Until then, we'll be here doing our part: watching the fall sunsets, keeping the porch lights on, and getting Latitude Adjustment ready for a summer full of families.
